Speaker Bio:

Jason Stark, OT Since 2011 Jason Stark has served as president of Cole Health. He oversees the operations providing outpatient pediatric rehabilitation and outpatient applied behavior analysis services at 23 locations in Texas, Washington, Washington D.C., and North Carolina. He has sole responsibility for the company's $35 million budget as well as overseeing Sales and Marketing, Talent Development, Compliance, and Human Resources. As President, he believes in serving through coaching and developing leaders, mentoring, and education for employees to be their best selves to establish a positive, fun, and healthy work environment for patients and employees to perform at their best. Jason's Why is to thoughtfully lead others to be the best versions of themselves so that they can serve others and make them feel loved. He does this by inspiring others, believing in work hard play hard, making others feel accepted, showing appreciation, and hoping for a better tomorrow. Fundamental to his leadership is looking for opportunities to make someone's day and show them you care, listen with the intention of understanding, challenge to find solutions to problems, and plan and think strategically.

Jason has developed specific customer service programs for health care institutions as well as a researched back leadership program. He is a respected member of the health care community and has been a representative to the Texas Legislature and Health and Human Services to advise on rehabilitation services policy. He has been an influential leader within the Texas Occupational Therapy Association. He is the current president and has served in other leadership positions including vice president, development chair and district chair of the Gulf Coast East District. Jason received his B.S. in Occupational Therapy from the School of Health Professions in Lubbock, Texas receiving the 2015 Distinguished Alumni Award and a Master of Healthcare Administration from Texas Women's University
